WHAT ARE WILLS?

A Will is both a love letter and an effective Estate Planning instrument. It is a document where you list down your wishes on how your assets are to be distributed. It also specifies the names of the persons whom you entrust with the responsibility of taking care of your assets and the proper distribution to your beneficiaries upon demise.

DO I NEED A WILL?

If you have assets or minor children, you should consider having a Will. Without a Will, the intestate's assets may only be administered and distributed in accordance with Malaysia Distribution Act 1958.

Having a Will is the only way that you can have a say over what happens to your assets upon demise. It will give you peace of mind knowing that your family will not be troubled by the complexity or expense that might result from intestacy, which is the condition of someone who dies without having a valid Will in place.

WHY MUST I HAVE A WILL?

When planning for your estate distribution, some families end up passing an axe to their beneficiaries who can then chop down the tree to retrieve the fruits.

On the other hand, some families do better by appointing a trusted person to water the tree and harvest the fruits so that the tree can continue to bear fruits for future generations to enjoy.
